
LYRICS: "HURRICANE"
MICHELLE CALDER

I'm a wildling
I'm ten thousand fireflies in a billowing dress
You're the first mud of spring Slick and murky,
leave my world a mess

Wild as September winds
You speak to me your sins
Like we're just playing pretend

You said you loved me
but we're just screaming,
into a hurricane
Two fires uncontrolled
Both screaming, into a hurricane Screaming, into a hurricane

You're a wild thing Tamed by a promise that you've come to regret You gave me your ring
And sold me crimson dreams
That I'll never forget

Wild as September winds
You speak to me your sins
Like we're just playing pretend

You said you loved me
but we're just screaming,
into a hurricane
Two fires uncontrolled
Both screaming, into a hurricane
Screaming, into a hurricane

Expecting you to become what I need Is like expecting the tide
To never recede, recede

Wild as September winds
Like we're just playing pretend

You said you loved me
but we're just screaming,
into a hurricane
Two fires uncontrolled
Both screaming, into a hurricane
Screaming, into a hurricane
Screaming, into a hurricane
